Soave under fire for alleged illegal trash activities, but no proof found

By Terry Wright

In December 1975, Anthony Soave formed City Disposal Systems, Inc. to take over an abandoned City of Detroit trash hauling contract. Since that time his trash hauling and landfill companies have grown throughout the state and nation until today City Management, with over two dozen subsidiary companies, is reportedly close to being a $1 billion per year organization.

One of Soave's most recent acquisitions was the Crawford-Otsego Landfill, which is run by City Environmental Services, Inc. of Northern Michigan, a subsidiary of City Management.

Anthony Soave has become a very rich man because of his interests in trash, and because of his wealth and the delicate nature of his businesses, he receives media attention at every turn of his operation. He and his employees have been accused of everything from price-fixing, to firebombing, to paying off state government officials to better his own interests.

If any of the accusations are true, Soave has yet to be formally convicted or even charged.

Soave's latest problem stems from the firebombing of an Oakland transfer station. When the owner company of the burned-out transfer station could not meet its contractual obligations, the contract was given to a company fronting for Soave.

He and his companies have been and may currently be under investigation by federal agencies, as was reported in the Detroit Free Press, but neither is now under investigation by the Michigan State Police Criminal Investigation Division as was also reported.

According to Captain Roger Warner, the division head of that agency, "Neither City Management, nor Anthony Soave is the target of an investigation that we are undertaking at this time."

A press release from City Management Corporation said, "It has been reported several times by the media that City Management Corporation is under active investigation for cash contributions and favors to Michigan public officials whose communities have trash hauling or landfill contracts with City Management. We have been informed by the Michigan State Police that City Management was not and is not a target in any investigation conducted by that agency. Based upon a citizen complaint, the State Police Criminal Investigation Division did open a file and conduct an investigation into the sale of the Crawford-Otsego landfill.

That file has not yet been closed. However, City Management was not a target in that investigation and is not a target in any other State Police Criminal Investigation Division investigation. Similarly, the Michigan Attorney General's office has confirmed that there is no active investigation of City Management by that office."

Robert Ianni, the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division, said, "We do not confirm or deny any specific investigations."

Soave's activities have included the purchase of landfills in Grayling, Saginaw, Flint, Pinconning, and the Detroit area. He has also purchased trash hauling and recycling businesses that serviced some of those landfills.

Besides the purchase of trash related businesses, Soave is said to also purchase powerful employees who can help his interests. Among his employees are James Sharp, former Mayor of Flint, and James Cleary, former Deputy Director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Solid Waste Division. In Crawford County, Commissioner Robert McLachlan serves as a paid consultant to City Environmental Services. He was hired after he sold his trash hauling business to City Management following the sale of the Crawford-Otsego Landfill.

Shortly after City Management's purchase of the Crawford-Otsego Landfill, Cleary then with the DNR promised an investigation into questionable circumstances involving the sale. Within five months he had taken an early retirement and joined Soave's team. No investigation was ever conducted.

Former Michigan House of Representatives member Steven Dresch, in an opinion column he wrote for the Cheboygan Daily Tribune, outlined a history between Soave and organized crime in Detroit.

"Soave has had previous links to Detroit mob figures, including an early 1970s partnership with Frank Mudaro who was described in 1963 U.S. Senate hearings as a section leader in the Detroit Mafia. Mudaro had been a business partner of William 'Black Bill' Tocco, one of five ruling dons of the Detroit Mafia."

City Environmental Services manager Gary Crosby dismissed the allegations of Soave's links to the Mafia by saying, "Anyone that grew up in Detroit's inner-city knows someone who is in the Mafia. That doesn't make them a criminal."

Soave has also received criticism for his political action committee, City-PAC. City-PAC has allegedly given large sums of money to a number of state legislators, including Senator John Prudnick (R-Hubbard Lake). Soave also has retained former State Senator Mitch Irwin of Sault Ste. Marie as a lobbyist.

While Soave's personal life has come under fire, his landfill-owning companies boast spotless environmental records according to DNR officials. His companies have cleaned up a landfill in the Detroit area, are currently implementing a clean-up effort in Grayling, and have offered to clean up a third in Waterford.

Soave, through a representative, refused to be interviewed at this time citing an extremely busy schedule.

Lovells gets jump on Mackinac Bridge's Labor Day Walk

Lovells will again have the upper hand by launching its 2nd annual Bridgewalk Saturday, August 14, three weeks ahead of the Mackinac Bridge Labor Day Walk.

The Lovells volunteer firefighters and medical first responders are hosting the event they claim is better than the Mackinac Bridge Walk. It's a little shorter than the five-mile Mackinac Bridge Walk and it's less crowded.

On Friday night, a bonfire will be held at the Lovells Township Hall as a rally for bridgewalkers. A pancake breakfast will be offered 8-10 a.m. Saturday.

On sale will be souvenir sweatshirts, T-shirts, and baseball caps reading, "I walked the Lovells Bridge" and featuring an attractive depiction of the local scenery.

For more information about the Lovells Bridgewalk, call City Grocery, 348-2223.

NEMCOG votes 'yes' to proposed landfill amendment

By Terry Wright

The Northeast Michigan Solid Waste Planning Committee voted to recommend the adoption of an amendment to the Crawford County solid waste management plan that would add nine new counties to the number that can dispose of their refuse at the City Environmental Services landfill located in Maple Forest Township.

At a meeting at the Crawford County Courthouse on Tuesday, August 3, the committee voted, 5 to 4, in favor of the amendment. Its recommendation will be forwarded to the Crawford County Board of Commissioners.

Although the committee voted in favor of the amendment as it was written by City Environmental Services, it also voted to forward to the commissioners a letter from NEMCOG Resource Program Specialist Rick Duell that outlined six specific recommended changes to be considered concerning the amendment:

1-The owner of the facility should provide an annual report to the county which includes total cubic yards of waste accepted, cubic yards of special waste, total remaining years of capacity and a breakdown of the volume of waste by county of origin.

2-The owner of the facility should fund household hazardous waste and waste reduction education programs unable to accept their waste.

3-The county board of commissioners should establish a five member advisory committee to review landfill operations, programs and reports.

4-Reciprocal agreements should be established with any outside county disposing of waste in the CES landfill, stating that the exporting county must support recycling and composting activities within that county.

5-The 17 counties currently listed in the five-year solid waste plan should all be upgraded to primary disposal status. The additional counties in the proposed amendment could use the landfill only if their primary facility is unable to accept their waste.

6-The amendment applies to the current five-year plan and the next five-year update only.

The planning committee recommendation will now be sent to the Crawford County Board of Commissioners for its review. It can either approve the amendment as written or send it back to the NEMCOG committee for further review. The commission can send it back to NEMCOG only once. If the NEMCOG approves the amendment, it will be forwarded to each of the six townships in Crawford County and to the City of Grayling for final acceptance or rejection.

Brian Banda appointed to CASD Board of Education

By Terry Wright

Brian D. Banda, 32, was chosen to replace Crawford AuSable School Board member Chris Dunckley. Dunckley resigned recently to take a position as the girls junior varsity basketball coach.

Banda was chosen from 11 applicants for the position. The board of education and the school district administration narrowed the field to three and, after interviewing them, chose Banda. He will hold the position as an appointee until the 1994 annual school election which will be held next June. At that time he can choose to be a candidate for the position.

Banda and wife Judy, have lived within the City of Grayling since 1984.

They have two daughters, Elizabeth, a fourth grader, and Jessica, a preschooler. He is a 1983 graduate of Adrian College with a degree in education. In 1990 he completed a sociology degree from Adrian. Banda currently works as a children's protective services worker with the Michigan Department of Social Services in Otsego County.

"This is an exciting time to be a part of the board, as education is changing rapidly," Banda said. "It is my opinion that school of choice legislation, as well as recent discussion regarding the voucher system, will forever change education. If the State of Michigan adopts the voucher system, our district must be prepared. This philosophy toward education will create an enormous amount of competition within districts, as well as private schools. We, as taxpayers, must insist that our district is prepared. This can only be done by upgrading educational equipment and properly utilizing the entire school staff."

Banda has been active in school activities and worked closely with the board of education and administration on the last bond issue. "I was impressed by their dedication and enthusiasm," he said.

An avid golfer, Banda has expanded his hobby into a precision craft by building custom-made golf clubs.

Banda and his family attend the Our Savior Evangelical Lutheran Church, where he is currently the president of the church council. He will assume his duties as a school board trustee at the August 16 school board meeting.

Crawford County, City Management gave the county total indemnification for environmental cleanup costs, including fines that had previously been assessed by the DNR against the landfill authority for environmental infractions.

When asked if the agreements would become part of the amendment before it went to the county board of commissioners for review, Balagna replied, "No, you will have to make those changes at your level of government."

Besides the six supervisors, also in attendance at the meeting were Mike Nelson, attorney for City Management, and Doug Dossen, attorney for Maple Forest Township.

New principal sought for GHS

CASD Superintendent Kent Reynolds announced late Tuesday that Joel L. Raddatz's name will be submitted to the board of education for approval as the GHS principal at its August 16 meeting. Raddatz comes from Boyne Falls, where he served as K-12 principal for the last three years. A complete story will appear in next week's Avalanche.

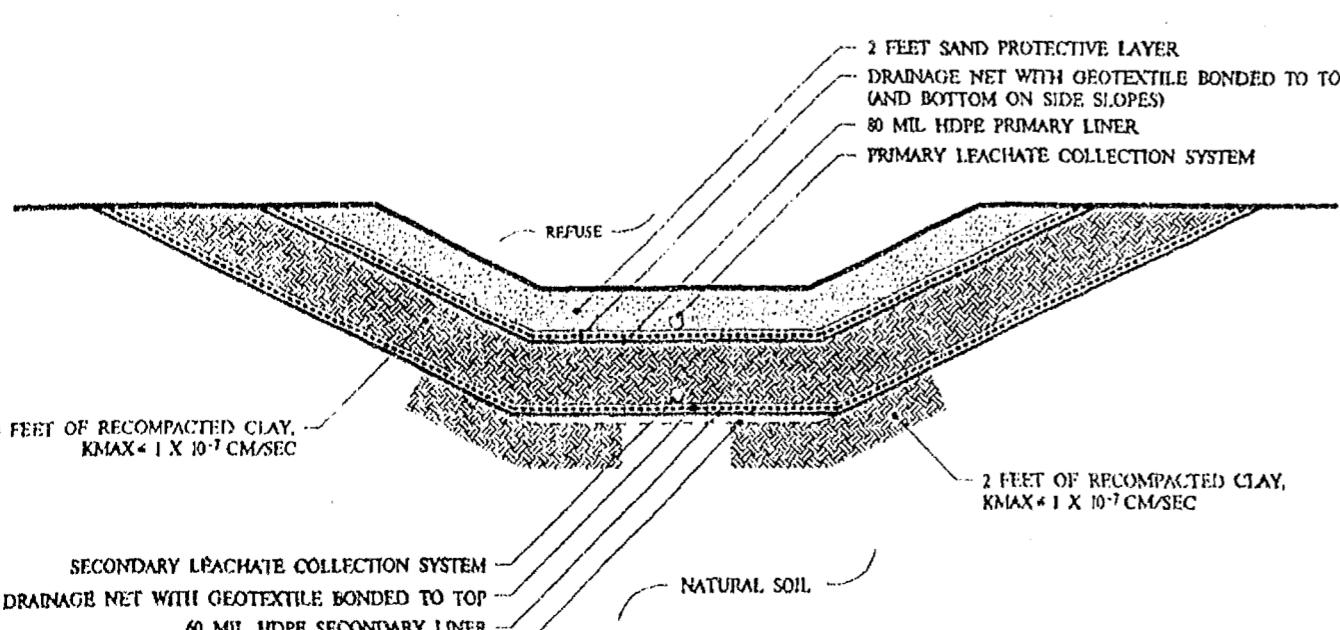

Six hours of freedom ends for Camp Lehman escapee

At approximately 7 a.m. on the morning of Monday, August 9, Camp Lehman inmate Michael Lee was apprehended within the boundaries of the Hartwick Pines State Park by the Michigan State Police K-9 unit.

Lee, 23, of Kalamazoo, escaped from Camp Lehman after 1 a.m. on the morning of the 9th. "We think that Lee was able to escape by climbing the security fence that surrounds the compound," said Steve Anderson, a Camp Lehman Resident Unit Manager. Lee had arrived at Lehman from Camp Pugsley on Friday, August 6, to serve out a 5-15 year sentence for breaking and entering.

He is currently being held in the Crawford County jail pending an arraignment.

Frederic Community Library celebrates opening with ribbon cutting ceremony

(The Frederic Community Library celebrated its grand opening on August 3. Following is the history of the library from its beginnings in 1958 to the ribbon cutting ceremony last week.)

By Merna Newberry
President, Library Advisory Board

From 1958 to 1962, Laura Battles had a small library on her front porch for the children of the Frederic Community. This program was provided by the Crawford County Library each summer. Laura included a special summer reading program for the children. As time passed and Laura's health started to fail, she was not able to run the library any longer and it was closed.

In 1971, the former Business Association was looking for a worthwhile project for the community. The decision was to create a library for the children and adults of the area. Rita Sarraut processed the books at her home and was able to open the doors of the library on January 8, 1972, in the Frederic Town Hall. For two and a half years, (under the direction of Merna Newberry) the library was run by a staff of volunteers. They had reading programs and film programs.

On August 13, 1974, the Frederic Business Association turned the library over to Frederic Township and at the same time Crawford County Librarian Doris Souders assisted in it becoming a branch of that library. It still had summer film and reading programs for the children, but a new library preschool program had been added. It was held one day a week and run by Kathi Black, who used her talents and creativity for activities that the children enjoyed. She ran the program for seven years. She started out with five children attending and the group soon grew to 24.

As the library and its programs expanded, it needed more space.

Barbara Verlinde was one of the librarians at this time.

With the help and donations of many wonderful businesses, organizations and friends, and the donation of the former Frederic office of the Grayling

New landfill regulations

estimates are correct, that population would support four landfills. There are currently 12 landfills in operation in the area. Even with the rapid growth that is projected for northern Michigan, only those that can successfully compete for the area's refuse will survive while others could be forced to close.

According to Balagna, of the 12 landfills currently in operation in northern Michigan, at least ten of them are already operating within the new regulations.

The new criteria will regulate where landfills can be located, how they are designed, how they must be operated, and how they will eventually be closed. State governments must develop programs for assessing whether landfills comply before granting permits for waste disposal.

A capsule of what the EPA will require includes:

• Landfills will not be situated on wetlands, floodplains, earthquake-prone areas, unstable geological formations, or property close to airports.

• Landfills must be double-lined to prevent liquids from leaching downward.

• To keep contaminants from leaking, landfills must capture leachate fluids in drainage layers, remove them through a system of pipes and pumps, and treat them before they can be released.

Library begins story hours

School days are fast approaching and that brings to mind books, stories and fun. The Crawford County Library is now taking applications for the Pre-School Story Hours.

The story hours are on Wednesday afternoons at 2 and Thursday morning at 11. Your child must have been three by June 1, 1993. The classes have a limit of 15 children each.

• Methane gases will have to be monitored. If explosive methane levels get too high for safety, the gases will have to be burned off or collected for release into the atmosphere.

• All landfills will be required to install perimeter wells for the monitoring of groundwater contaminants. If contaminants are found, they will have to be treated and system corrections will be made to prevent further contamination.

• Landfill operators will have to remove regulated hazardous wastes and PCBs from loads before they are deposited into landfill cells.

• Each day, landfill cells will be covered by six inches of earthen material and when a cell is capped, the earthen layer will have to be 18 inches thick.

• Before a landfill can open, it must have an approved plan to close it when it has reached its maximum capacity.

• Before a landfill can open, the owners must prove that they have the financial means to keep it safe after it is closed. Financial assurance in the form of trusts or bonds will have to be set up.

States with their own EPA-approved regulations will be able to approve alternative landfill designs if it is proven that the same levels of protection can be achieved.

WGRY broadcaster wins prestigious 'ACE' award

Fletch Armstrong, of Grayling radio station WGRY, was recently awarded the "ACE" award for creative excellence by the Michigan Association of Broadcasters. The award was for a commercial that he did for the Houghton Beach Convenience Store.

Armstrong, who has been with WGRY for over one year, came to Grayling and WGRY straight from broadcast school.

Jr. basketball and soccer underway through G.R.A.

By Terry Wright

The junior basketball and soccer leagues, currently taking registrations, will be administered by the Grayling Recreation Authority under the direction of recreation specialists Dan Wyers and Cari Longworth. In the past the soccer program was run by the Michigan Cooperative Extension 4-H office and Junior Pro Basketball was run through volunteer efforts.

Under the G.R.A., the two programs will now be under the umbrella of year-round paid professionals in recreational organization and administration.

"This has been in the works for a couple of years," said Wyers. "They built tremendous programs but they were just getting too big. We're very happy to be able to take them, and the volunteers who have worked on both programs in the past have promised to continue to help with the transition."

Besides turning over the administrative duties to the G.R.A., Junior Pro Basketball also turned over $6,000 in funds that are to be used to purchase glass backboards for the middle school gymnasium.

Junior Pro Girls Basketball typically attracts about 200 girls in grades three through six. This year, grades one and two will be included. The girls play ball during the fall season, with their first games to be held on September 11 at the middle school.

The boys usually number about 250. Their season runs December through February. Both boys and girls play their games on Saturdays.

The first soccer games are also scheduled for September 11. This year, for the first time, all soccer games will also be held on Saturdays. Last year between 200 and 250 children enjoyed co-ed soccer but, according to Wyers, "If we have enough girls sign up, this year they will have their own league. If not they will be with the boys again."

Cari Longworth will be the day-to-day administrator of both basketball and soccer programs. She is a full-time employee of the Grayling Recreation Authority and a graduate of Northern Michigan University with a degree in recreation.

"By taking on junior basketball and soccer, we're helping to fill a need in the community," said Wyers. Longworth added with a smile, "Busy, busy, busy."

Citizens should support township supervisors regarding landfill issue

A most enlightening and provocative article appeared in the Crawford County Avalanche, August 5th. It was an article every tax-paying citizen of the county should hold as an example of extreme importance in upholding the democratic process involving our local government.

The headline . . . "Supervisors ask for three changes to CES solid waste amendment" should have set off every warning bell in our community. At long last we have hard, clear evidence there is something very wrong taking place in the body of the Crawford County governmental process.

The essence of the problem actually started two or three years ago. It is a complex story of ignorance, corruption and greed. It is very difficult to present a short, concise version of the Otsego/Crawford County Landfill saga, but the citizens of this area deserve the facts in order for a wise judgement to be rendered involving this particular situation.

By mandate from the State of Michigan, every county was to construct an equitable Solid Waste Management Plan. Through politics and exploitation, the Solid Waste Management Plan was initiated as follows: The MI Department of Natural Resources Solid Waste Division and The MI Council of Governments would work in tandem with local county governments to construct viable solid waste management plans.

The obvious flaw in this joint effort was the open-end agreement between the state and the counties. If a county chose to be an active and informed participant, then county officials carefully appointed a committee to represent the citizens' best interests in writing a legally sound waste management plan. On the other hand, a county — through ignorance, apathy or greed — could sign off their responsibility in writing a sound plan by appointing misinformed or disinterested representatives; or allow The MI Council of Governments to write a generic solid waste plan, hence a loosely written plan that would be ineffectual in protecting citizen's rights and the environment.

It is obvious to the many honest individuals who have been involved in landfill issues that the State of MI, the MI DNR, some state and local officials, and the "trash hauling" industrial complex had much to gain through poorly written Solid Waste Management Plans. Because the U.S. is the most consumptive nation in the world, we need "mega dumps" to hold our hazardous waste and trash. Nationwide, the "big boy" trash haulers saw a great opportunity to line their pockets with "cubic yard gold."

Of course there were a few obstacles for the "big boys" to overcome. Oddly enough, the biggest obstacle was eliminated by the U.S. Supreme Court on June 2, 1992. On that day the High Court struck down Michigan law that allowed counties to declare themselves off-limits to any out-of-state trash. The quote was, "Supreme Court says private dumps must be allowed to take out-of-state garbage."

The "big boys" won big that day, and the local citizenry tragically lost another bit of control and protection in their respective communities. Who empowered the ruling? One can only guess, but we can safely assume the "big boys" were very pleased by the Supreme Court judgment. Remember, money is power.

The next obstacle for inadvertent trash dumping: to mitigate local Solid Waste Management Plans to their lowest level. This action would be tricky, but entirely possible if the "big boys" could maneuver local elective officials into the belief it would be in the best interest of locally owned and operated landfills to sell out to the large conglomerates through promises of more cost saving management techniques provided by the "big boys" to the involved landfill authorities.

The "big boys" figured out right away, the best counties to approach with their "saving grace agreements" were the counties which already had existing landfill problems. Out-of-compliance landfills are "sucker bait" for the "big boys." They promise to clean up existing contamination, talk the state into lowering fines, and low and behold, we have multi-county "mega dumps" in the place of little county landfills.

The "big boys" also like to work with county boards that are heavily laced with members who dabble in the "learned ignorance syndrome." A lot of money can be made by large trash haulers through county commissions, who by nature are ignorant of the complexities of landfill issues.

It has been proven certain state and local representatives have willingly signed on to the "cubic yard gold rush."

A federal grand jury investigation has been initiated downstate to deliberate garbage disposal activities. The Detroit Free Press and The Detroit News have released numerous articles concerning the diabolic events surrounding the trash industry. The press has given the citizens the facts, and it doesn't take much common sense to figure out our local county is in the middle of the fray.

Now the true importance of the August 5 Avalanche article manifests itself. In an extraordinary act of "right action" on behalf of citizenry of Crawford County, all six township supervisors protested the latest amendment of the Crawford County Solid Waste Management Plan. The Supervisors presented their protest to all involved parties, including the Crawford County Board of Commissioners.

It is nice to know at least our township supervisors are concerned about the economic and environmental well-being of the Crawford County taxpayer.

Their three issues — additional landfill back-up facilities, protection from escalating landfill costs, and protection from liability due to landfill contamination — are reality based concerns.

Whatever Crawford County citizen needs to ask is why didn't our county board of commissioners have the same concerns as the township supervisors? Why was our county board content to allow City Environmental Services to "steam roll" the Otsego/Crawford County Landfill Authority into almost complete submission? Why did the MI DNR sell out on us? Who is running our state and local governments, the people or City Management?

Most importantly: Why should our township supervisors have to battle City Environmental Services and the Crawford County Board of Commissioners in order to protect our rights? And why are the citizens of this county silent in their support of their beleaguered township supervisors?

Remember, it was mentioned money is power, and yet there is a greater power. The voice of the people is a tremendous power. The voice of the people standing by the law. The law demands open meeting hearings before the sale of public lands. The law demands environmental protection and enforcement via the MI DNR and the Natural Resource Commission. The law demands accountability via the MI Attorney General's Office.

Unfortunately, the laws of our land can be twisted out of context by corrupt officials. The only way to gain back our democracy is to attend local government meetings and voice our opinions. Local government is only as strong and honest as citizens wish it to be. The actions taken by our township supervisors concerning the landfill issue offer a perfect situation for citizen participation.

Call or stop by your township supervisor's office, shake his or her hand, leave a written statement of your support concerning the landfill issue. Your silence will be a vote against democratic action in this county. Your silence tells the Crawford County Board of Commissioners that it's ok if they sell the citizenry of our county to the "big boys!"

Let's hear it for taxes, taxes, taxes

Pity the poor members of the Michigan Legislature.

They're going to have to vote in favor of new state taxes — and during an election year at that.

Either that or they're going to have to shoulder responsibility for gutting local education.

That's the unwelcome choice with which state lawmakers saddled themselves because of their whirlwind decision to abolish all local property taxes for school operations.

Those who pushed the measure — chiefly Sen. Debbie Stabenow of Lansing, who's running for governor — praised the action as a necessity to achieve fundamental reform of how the state supports its schools.

But the road will be bumpy — and while the voters are watching, too.

* * *

PUTTING MONEY BACK into the schools before the 1994 school year opens means votes on new taxes will come most likely during the 1994 election campaign.

All 110 House seats and 38 Senate seats — plus the governor's office — will be up for election in 1994.

If there's anything a politician hates it's being forced to vote for new taxes, especially during an election year.

The alternative to new funding is letting the schools stay unchanged. That's going to be a tough choice, too.

* * *

MS. STABENOW TROTTED out a list of possible new tax levies for schools.

She suggested the legislature should look at a two percent increase in personal income tax, reduce Homestead Property Tax credits, expand the four percent sales tax to services, hike cigarette tax by 25 cents a pack, increase the Single Business Tax by 1.5 percent, and establish a statewide commercial property tax of 25 mills.

Other suggestions have included reinstalling some local property taxes for schools, giving local school district options for income taxes or other locally levied taxes, statewide property tax for schools, and going back to the people for a higher sales tax. Other suggestions certainly will arise.

Then there's the other way to go — squeezing school operations or other state services through budget cuts to spend less money on kids.

All in all, it's not a pleasant prospect facing Lansing's decision makers.

Taxes and schools should provide plenty of fodder for both incumbents and challengers in 1994's election cycle. Stay tuned. There could be plenty of political casualties.

* * *

SHORTRAGE GROWS —

Incidentally, the amount of property tax support for schools thrown out by the legislature seems to be growing, all by itself.

Estimates during the legislative arguments preceding the vote were in the $5.4 to $5.6 billion range.

Rep. Lynn Jonahl, house taxation co-chair and another would-be governor, used a $6 billion estimate.

Later, a group of legislators from both parties — all of whom voted against the idea — is arguing voters to support millages already scheduled until this drama plays itself out. They now use a $7 billion-plus figure.

The fact is that, as in so many other aspects of this unfolding situation, nobody is really sure of how much is involved, or how the chips are going to fall.

These uncertainties only add to the drama.

Dear Concerned Teenager: Thank you for your letter. At first I was alarmed that I received only a handful of letters expressing your viewpoint. The overall response has been silence, so does that mean most teenagers have a contrary view to yours? I don't know, but as long as a few hold "abstinence until marriage" as a convicted belief, the numbers will begin to trickle in.

Note: I'm definitely changing my stance from safe sex to no sex. With enough peer pressure, perhaps some of my younger readers will change their stance, too. So, teens, I want to hear from you! I might make it well worth your while.

Concerned Teenager: I'm one of those teenagers whom you asked to write in if they were practicing abstinence. I really resent the way the media and most people portray teenagers as sex crazed animals. I'm a human being who has made the conscious decision to wait until my wedding night to have sex.

There are many teenagers who abuse drugs and alcohol. We know they're doing it, so why don't we say, "Because we know you're going to use drugs anyway, we'll make a safe environment for you to do it. We'll hand out clean needles and make sure the drugs are clean." Sounds ludicrous, right? That's what we've done with the issue of sex among teenagers. We constantly hear from TV, educators, parents, etc., "We know you're having sex, so we'll give you condoms to make it safe sex." Amazing!

The failure rate of condoms is about 18%. That may not seem very large, but in addition to expecting condoms to be a birth control device, we're also expecting them to save our lives. When it comes to my life, any percent of failure is too high and not worth the risk.

NOTES FROM THE WOODS

By Nancy Lemmen

High school journalists need to cover real issues. Real issues include subjects such as the disintegration of the family, teen alcoholism, suicide, drug abuse, AIDS, teen sex. They do not include such subjects as the history of Halloween, the importance of school spirit or "mindless song dedications."

That was Bobby Hawthorne's message to a large group of student writers at the Michigan Interscholastic Press Association spring conference at Michigan State University. Hawthorne, director of the Interscholastic Press League of Texas, was the keynote speaker at the conference.

Having students write about serious topics is good public relations, said Hawthorne. This tells the public the school is serious about education.

He related a story about one of his former students who graduated and went on to a stellar career in photo-journalism.

"I don't take credit for what John Moore has done, but I do take a lot of pride in it," said Hawthorne.

I have been thinking about Bobby Hawthorne and what he said in relation to a couple of my own former journalism students at Grayling High School — Adam Anger and Jordan Stancil.

They enrolled in the GHS Publications class in their senior year and, with no prior experience, accepted the positions of co-editors-in-chief of The Norseman, the school paper. They were smart and they learned their jobs quickly. And this past school year, as college freshmen at the University of Michigan, they both got jobs on the Michigan Daily, U-M's student newspaper.

As its name implies, The Daily is published every day. It is one of the finest examples of collegiate journalism in the country and these two young guys from a small, rural high school in northern Michigan were good enough to get jobs on the paper's staff.

Like Hawthorne, I don't take credit for what they are doing, but I do take a lot of pride in it.

During their first month on campus, Adam and Jordan attended a mass meeting for the 70 or so students who were interested in applying for staff positions. The applicants split off into their areas of interest — sports, news, opinions and art.

ADAM'S TURN

Adam joined the news staff.

His first assignment came within the week to cover an event called Festifall, at which the University Activities Center hosts a day devoted to the 200 plus student organizations which set up booths on the "Diag," located in the center of campus.

Adam said his first stories were edited quite heavily by the student editors of the news staff until he "started to get the hang of the style and the tone the newspaper uses."

In order to officially get on the staff, he had to write four stories and work four night shifts proofreading the paper and covering last-minute news stories.

Every day, the news staff holds a conference at 4:15 p.m. Writers with story assignments meet with the night editors to discuss content and length. From there, the editors design the layout and compose the paper, using a computerized graphic design layout program.

"All night editors and assistant editors must be proficient in the Pagemaker program," said Adam, who had taught himself computer design while still in high school.

By second semester, he was promoted to beat reporter for the Michigan Student Assembly (MSA), while still managing to "grab a general story assignment once in a while to get out of the same thing every day."

In the spring, he wrote a one-page feature on the MSA election of officers for the following term.

"That was probably my favorite because it was the most influential article I wrote," he said. "The purpose was to inform students about MSA and the candidates, in addition to creating student involvement. As a result of our complete coverage, they week. In that role, he edited had the largest turnout of students Associated Press stories, formatted than in many years past during the stories on the computer and prepped them for layout.

"I worked with my MSA partner, He also earned shares for writing which also helped me learn about co-authoring a story for news," he continued. "It's low pay, but I'm not doing it for money. It's something I enjoy doing very much. It's a good way to get to know the university and everything that goes on."

"Just about anyone can work for control over a whole page of a (The Daily)," he said. "But people don't last long — about two weeks

Another favorite assignment was the personal profile he wrote on a 73-year-old World War II veteran who worked for the university's registration department.

"He commented on the usefulness of his wartime experiences, which helped him in his day-to-day interactions with students, which was quite amusing," said Adam.

The staff is paid by "shares." He scratch." earned a certain number of shares (Next week: Jordan's stint as a working as the assistant night editor Michigan Daily writer.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It's job of officials to oversee safety at public celebrations, not schedule them

In response to Ms. Marie Scott's question appearing in the July 25th Avalanche, "Have we forgotten to properly celebrate 4th of July Holiday." Mention was made in the article directing the question to "Mr. Mayor, Mr. Chief of Police, Mr. Commissioners," and also the citizenry in general.

Speaking for the Grayling Mayor and Police Department, I can only advise it is our responsibility to oversee the safety of these functions, not the scheduling. Whenever there have been activities of this type scheduled, the City of Grayling has been ready and willing to provide leadership, from the safety functions of the police department, fire department equipment and personnel participation to the Mayor's speaking at Memorial Day Services. Yes, support from the National Guard camp personnel is obvious and has prevailed in every celebration scheduled. It would appear the real purpose of Memorial Day and Fourth of July holidays has been sidestepped.

The key to this concern is public interest. Please don't confuse this issue with "scheduling" or "active performance." Ms. Scott, were you to garner public support for these important functions, I know the Legion would be appreciative. So also would the City of Grayling continue its practice of providing community leadership.

Just a few years past, three, possibly four, the Memorial Day/4th of July parades came under discussion by the American Legion. From this discussion it was decided to discontinue future parade activity for these dates due to a lack of interest.

Another result was the decision that if public support for ALL activities could not be generated, a concentrated effort would be directed to ONE major function. As the AuSable River Festival had drawn the most public support the decision was made to direct efforts toward this activity. The festival committee is made up of local citizenry. Several times various function leadership has been needed, I feel certain that additional public efforts would be welcomed.

Youth perform good deed

We are always hearing the bad things young people are doing. Well, this is to say don't believe it all.

Recently we had a problem and needed some help. After most of our adult friends said no, a neighbor asked a young person going by if he wanted to help. If so, go get a few of his friends. Eleven kids came, ranging from 1st grade to 8th grade. They all pitched in and helped, not expecting anything in return, just the fact they could help. They helped fill in a large hole in our yard.

Chamber to honor Jerome Kessler at annual banquet on August 21

This year marks the 45th year of the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce. Records show that Jerome Kessler was the first official board president of the Chamber in 1948. It was not until 1955, however, when the Articles of Incorporation were submitted to the State of Michigan that the chamber was formally established as a non-profit incorporated organization.

At the chamber's Annual Dinner on Saturday, August 21, the membership will salute and honor Kessler for his contribution to the chamber of commerce and the community.

Also, the recipients of the "Citizen of the Year" and the prestigious "Athena Award" will be honored at the annual dinner program which will be held at the Camp Grayling Officers' Club.

Tickets can be obtained at the Grayling chamber office.

Englund performs at music camp

Jeff Englund, a 1993 GHS junior, participated in Grand Rapids Baptist College's two week 1993 Summer Music Camp, June 14-26.

The college's summer music camp for high school students provided opportunities for individual private instruction as well as group instruction in jazz band, concert band, conducting, choir, handbell and stringed instruments. The students also studied theory and had daily practices in each section.

Several concerts took place during the two weeks and included full band and choir, as well as small and large ensembles, and also faculty. The concerts took place on campus and at Berean Baptist Church, Grand Rapids. The final concert on June 26 featured each large music ensemble.

Englund had private instruction in trumpet from Professor Gregg Good, a brass music major. He also participated in jazz band, concert band, choir and conducting classes. Englund plays trumpet in the concert band, marching band and pep band at Grayling High School. He is the son of Dave and Judy Englund of Grayling.

HEALTHLINE

Linda DeMarchis, M.A., Health Educator

This column is presented as a public service to the community by District Health Department No. 1 which serves, Wexford, Missaukee, Kalkaska, and Crawford counties. If you have a question you would like answered, please send it to Health Educator District Health Department No. 1, 401 Lake St., Cadillac, Michigan, 49601.

Question: My husband usually cooks on the grill every day in the summer. Is there a problem with this?

Answer: There was a time when we used to throw everything on the grill, from steaks to hot dogs, without a care. Now that consumers are more health conscious, they are questioning the safety of former practices. The concern of grilling arises from the recently discovered link between grilled fatty meats and cancer.

When meats are cooked, the fat drips down onto the heat source (coals, gas burner, wood chips, etc.) and forms cancer-causing chemicals. Then the chemicals are carried back up in the rising smoke and deposited on the meat, especially when it is cooked to a very well done stage or charred.

For the best grilling, you must adopt practices that minimize both the dripping fat and excessive smoking. Here are a few suggestions:

- Don't grill every day.
- Trim fat off of meat.
- Place foil punctured with a few holes on the grill first.
- Precook meat by microwaving or broiling before placing on grill.
- Place a metal pan between meat and coals to catch drippings.
- Put the meat to the side instead of directly over coals.
- Do not lower grill lid.
- Cut off charred portions of meat before serving.
- Prepare more meatless dishes such as vegetable kabobs.

If you would like to know more about food safety, the Health Department is an excellent source of information. Their environmental health staff can answer questions or supply you with literature on various food safety topics.

Diabetes can damage heart

Diabetes is bad enough alone. Don't make it worse.

By itself, diabetes increases your risk of developing heart disease, says the American Heart Association. More than 80 percent of diabetics die of some form of heart or blood vessel disease. It can also lead to kidney disease, blindness and nerve damage.

Your chance of having a heart attack or stroke is even greater when diabetes is combined with other risk factors for heart disease. Obesity and physical inactivity are often related to diabetes. These are two more risk factors that you can change.

So if you have diabetes, try to control your other risk factors: cigarette smoking, high blood cholesterol and high blood pressure. Major risk factors that can't be changed are heredity, male sex and increasing age.

Diabetes mellitus is the inability of the body to produce or respond to insulin properly. Insulin allows the body to use glucose (sugar). The two major forms of the disease are juvenile diabetes and adult-onset diabetes, but the adult-onset disease most often affects middle-aged and overweight people.

Diabetes is more prevalent — and more deadly — among Hispanics. For example, Hispanics are three times more likely than other races to develop adult-onset diabetes, according to the recent federal government Hispanic Health and Nutrition Examination Survey. Hispanics are also more likely to suffer complications from diabetes.

These differences are in part due to greater cultural and economic barriers to health care.

Unfortunately, there's no known cure for diabetes. The worse it gets, the greater the chance of complications such as high blood pressure. And diabetes can go undetected in a mild form for many years.

That's why getting regular checkups is smart. Your doctor may suggest that you change your diet to one that's high in complex carbohydrates and low in fat and cholesterol. You may need to take medicine.

And remember to deal with those risk factors for heart disease that you can change: cigarette smoking, high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol, obesity and physical inactivity. Diabetes needs no company.

FOX RUN GOLF NEWS

By Dick Spenny

Week 13 of the Fox Run men's league has gone into the record books with some interesting changes in the standings.

The 1st place winner for Flight A was Corrine Smith with a 33. Second place for Flight A was Mary Jane Knibbs with a 34, with Kathy Olson placing 3rd with a 35.

The winners for Flight B were Jeanne Thompson, 1st with a 34; Elsie Jansen, 2nd with a 37; and Donna Thomson, 3rd with a 39.

Flight C winner was Vonne Addison placing 1st with a 39. With a tie for 2nd and 3rd with 40 were Fran Shires and Joan Miller.

The Flight D winners were Shirley Schultz in 1st with a 42; Ann Latuszek, 2nd with a 43; and Sue Brenner in 3rd with a 44.

The umbrella donated by Paul and Donna Thomson was won by Nancy Hoffman.

A real race is forming in the fourth flight, as Scott Fick and Dan Wyers have passed two teams in pursuit of the title. They now trail front runners Ed Furstenau and Jack Eckerly by a scant two points but with three weeks to play. Two teams, Watson-Kehoe and Rudledge-Oppy are only four back. In third flight, Steve Green and Leo Johns have also moved to 2nd and are only five behind Corky Gaylor and Hans Lantzsch.

Bill Denemy and Rodger Wagner cling to their lead in second flight but Phil Verdui and Eli Mathis follow the trend by moving from 3rd to 2nd. Don Moore and Mike Griffin fell to 3rd as Venus-Mathis downed them, head to head, 13.5 to 7.5.

First Flight pace setters Jim Lederman and Tom Bailey lead the league in point making with 71 in a contest that is all but over. Jeff Nester and Bob Jansen are 11.5 back.

Low scores were at a premium on the 13th night. Rick Marshall and Jim Lederman led the way with 40 to take gross honors. Tim Gilchrist earned super sub of the week honors with his fine net 32 in a 14.5 to 6.5 victory effort. Marshall's net 35 was 2nd. One unnamed player took 12 on a par three without ever being out of bounds or in any water. Birdies were as scarce as Kirtland warblers as the entire league carded only seven.

Currently in the hunt for wild card playoff spots are the teams of Nester-Jansen, Denemy-Wagner, Green-Johns and Watson-Kehoe.

Upcoming events at Fox Run include the men's tournament on September 11, women's tournament on August 26, Heart of the North on August 19 and club championships on August 29.

Hunting & Fishing Weekly Update

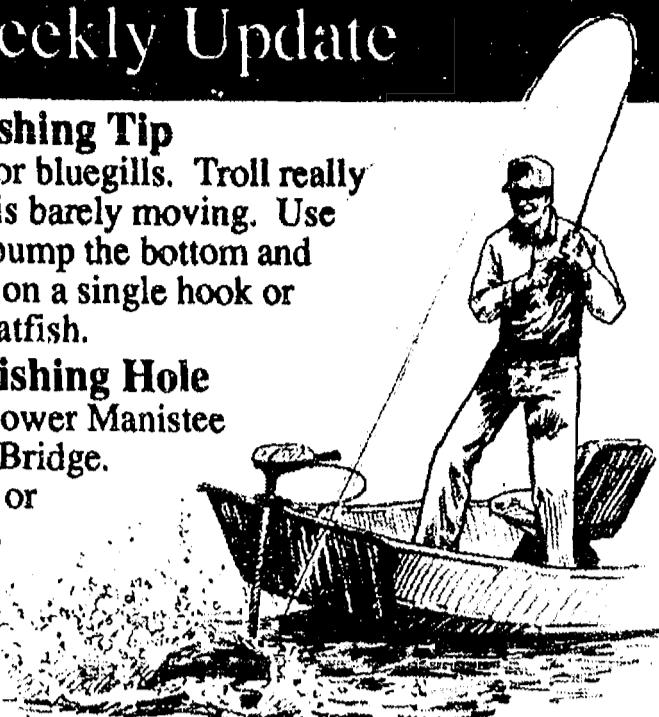

This Week's Fishing Tip

Try trolling deep for bluegills. Troll really slow so your boat is barely moving. Use enough weight to bump the bottom and use a nightcrawler on a single hook or a very small S-3 flatfish.

For The Best Fishing Hole

For trout, fish the lower Manistee River below CCC Bridge.

Float with a canoe or boat using hoppers or skunks. Also they're hitting well on small Borchers or yellow Drakes.

The first thing to teach your children about preventive tooth care is that good eating habits are important. Foods that keep the whole body healthy will also keep teeth, gums and jawbones in good condition. Milk, cheese, meat, eggs, vegetables, fruits, whole grain breads and cereals are excellent for healthy teeth and gums.

If your child eats between meals, remember that snacks should be low in sugar. In-between-meal treats such as candy, cookies, ice cream, sugared chewing gum and sweet drinks may play havoc with a child's teeth. Bacteria which are normally present in the mouth combine with sugar to form acids - acids which attack tooth enamel. Eventually, it causes cavities.

When sweets are eaten between meals there is a greater chance for cavities to develop, since the child will probably not brush immediately after snacking - before acids have a chance to form.

Some tooth worthy snacks for children are: apples, oranges, bananas, plums, peaches, fruit juices, milk and cheese. The greater distance between junk foods and teeth, the better.

GIRLS' STATE—Juniors Jamie McKinney, Julie Hinderleider and Rene Akers were selected to represent Grayling High School at Girls' State, at Central Michigan University, this summer.

Library summer reading programs issue awards

The closing entertainment for the "Make A Splash! READ" summer reading program was Magic with Jania Taylor with more than 100 people in attendance. Taylor was able to use a recycling theme in her magic act with audience participation.

The drawing for the gummy worms revealed Nathan Ross as the winner. The number of gummy worms was 50 which Chuck Chesner, Ann Hughes, Jason Malone, and Christine Smock also guessed and were awarded certificates from Dairy Queen.

The summer reading programs were a success due to the support of McDonald's for incentive coupons, Dairy Queen for sundae coupons, Lions' donation for Dial-a-ride, and Rotary donation for RIF books.

T-SHIRTS WINNER—Krys Rugenstein, far left 2nd row, a Grayling Middle School 5th grader, won "Save the Earth" T-shirts for every student in her class, taught by Dawn Feldhauser. Her name was drawn in a contest at the Target Store in Traverse City from over 200 entries.

BOYS' STATE—Grayling High School juniors Jeremiah Blaauw, Josh Wells and Jason Puls were chosen to attend Boys' State at Michigan State University, June 20 to 26.

Kirtland to offer child care

Kirtland Community College will once again have a child care center. The Children's Learning Center will open around August 23 and operate until May 13, 1994. Hours of operation will be from 7:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, and from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. on Fridays (closed weekends, holidays and college snow days).

Children ages two and a half to six will experience directed play, self awareness activities, outdoor activities and a variety of other pre-school experiences, along with receiving meals, snacks and naps or rest periods.

The center, managed by Nancy Hughey, a 1979 graduate of Kirtland's Child Care Specialist program, is located on College Drive, just south of the main campus. All community children will be eligible, with priority given to Kirtland students.

For further information, call 275-5121, extension 251.

The Bible Speaks

From The Calvary Baptist Church

BiblioSexuals vs. Faithphobics

The "politically correct" terms currently used to describe the cultural conflict regarding sodomy is "homosexual vs. homophobia." Sodomy is being promoted as a normal lifestyle, and all resistance to this view is being attacked as homophobia, bigotry, intolerance, and discrimination.

In reality, the traditional Judeo-Christian conflict with sodomy could realistically be defined as "BiblioSexuals vs. Faithphobics." By "biblioSexual" we simply mean faith in God's words concerning sexual morality. God created sex with controls. God revealed strict civil laws to Israel and the church regarding sexual conduct, and severe punishment for violation of these laws. Our moral convictions governing many centuries of western civilization are rooted in God's words, and not changing human feelings, opinions, or experiences. (Lev. 18:22, 20:13; I Cor. 6:9, 10; I Tim. 1:9-11; 2 Pet. 2:6; and Jude 1:7).

Today, God, the Bible, and believers, as the moral foundation of western civilization are under attack by "Faithphobics." "Faithphobics" are people who reject the authority of God and the Bible for their own feelings and fears. Specifically, sodomites as "Faithphobics" fear the guilt and punishment of violating God's sex laws. (Romans 1:24-32). They cannot forget the historical record of how God deliberately destroyed sodomites in Sodom and Gomorrah, with brimstone and fire from heaven, (Genesis 19:24, 25). With the advent of AIDS, "faithphobia" has increased. Rejecting God, sodomites seek to compound their sexual lust by corrupting others. (Rom. 1:32).

A report released by the American Association of University Women, and compiled by the Wellesley College Center for Research on Women states "the assumption of heterosexuality is a form of discrimination," and wants courses to emphasize "the body as a source of joy, pleasure and comfort." Personal pleasure is being pursued as an acceptable assumption for sexual conduct in our culture. Militant "Faithphobics," as one percent of our population, eagerly promote discrimination against God, the Bible, Christians, sodomy laws, and ninety-nine percent of our citizens who are heterosexuals.

"Faithphobics" are uniting to push their "gay" agenda upon our culture through the power of music, entertainment, education and politics. Many people are sick and tired of this public bombardment of sexual filth. Our reaction to "gay" militant activism is closer to "homonausea" than "homophobia." Just remember, God is still on His throne. "[T]hough hand [join] in hand, the wicked shall not be unpunished; but the seed of the righteous shall be delivered." (Pro. 11:21).

FOX RUN GOLF NEWS

By Dick Spenny

Scores soared in the Wednesday Men's League at Fox Run as 35-mile-per-hour winds buffeted the course. It didn't seem to bother John Funkey as his tee shot on number 8 reached the green on the 317-yard hole. His birdie finish gave him a gross 38 and a net 32 to set the pace for the league. Rick Marshall birdied 6 and 9 in a losing cause in the same foursome.

Two players earned supersub honors for week 11. Brent McNitt netted at 35 to help Lynn Hutchinson bag a 13.5 to 7.5-point victory over Doug Blue and Bill Myers. Bart Kjolhede also carded net 35 to join with Steve Ament in a fantastic 17 to 4 victory over Jim Englehard's duo. In all, only four players shot 40 or better on the windswept fairways.

Tom Bailey widened his lead in the first flight to 9.5 over Jeff Nester and Bob Jansen in a head-to-head match. Except for Tom Bailey's sparkling 39, scores were in the high 40s for this group.

Second flight seems to be where the action is. Six teams are within ten points of the lead in a wide open race. Jerry DeWitt and Don Nester, who had led the group, fell all the way to 3rd as Bill Denemy and Rodger Wagner vaulted into the lead with a 3.5-point spread over Don Moore and Mike Griffin. Eli Mathis and Phil Verdure are tied with the DeWitt team.

In third flight, Hans Lantzsch and Corky Gaylor gained a point on the field despite falling to Bob Murphy and Dave Dougherty, 13 to 8. Wally King and Ron Lewis hold 2nd spot, 6.5 back.

Jack Eckerly and Ed Furstenau have been on a winning streak in fourth flight and now trail leaders Jim Rutledge and Doc Oppy by a slim three points. The lead had been seven only a week ago.

The Fox Run ladies seem to know their way around the course a little better than the men on some days. Sub Carol Marenko and Carolyn Gates both netted at 28 to prove the point. Theresa Bradley netted 30 in her subrole. Debi Nedrick and Ann Scott hold a comfortable five-point lead over Mary Alice McKindles and Carol Osting in the A Flight.

Just as in the men's group, second flight provides the most interest. Margo Richardson and Jo Anne Tyler lead with 46, but the teams of Linda Mott and Joyce Routley, together with Bernie Cowan and Joanne Keiper, are tied for 2nd at 44.5. Joey Marshall and Tana Stuck seem to be well in charge in third flight as they posted a 57 to 49.5 point lead over Jan Funkey and Labeth Nester.

The women's Heart of the North Tournament will be held at Fox Run on August 19. Call 348-4343 for details.

LOVELLS NEWS

Rumor has it that the Lovells Township Supervisor Fred Schaible may bungee jump off the Lovells bridge to start the bridge walk August 14th.

Scriptures Selected by The American Bible Society

Have you ever driven along an old country road and out in a distant field noticed an old vintage automobile squatting in the tall grass? And as you passed by, its headlights, like eyes seemed to follow you. Perhaps, for a moment it made you wonder what stories it could tell. Like ourselves, possibly accounts of happy times, distant trips and proud feelings we have experienced.

However, in final neglect, this once magnificent machine, now rusted out, no longer functioning properly, has been abandoned. It now lies in lonely and desolate surrounds, wasted and forgotten.

The hard miles and long endless road we travel in life take its toll. Tired of it all we sometimes end up in disrepair and give up. If we don't want to end up like the car in the field, we must keep ourselves in good condition.

Your church or synagogue can offer you the best satisfied service guaranteed to keep you well tuned, shining and new.

Jim Failing, nurses director of Voiture 1495, 40 et 8, presented Vicki Wheeler with a nurses scholarship check, which is sponsored by the local organization. Vicki will be starting her R. N. training at Northern Michigan University at Marquette this fall.

Rosalynne Johnston returned home from a ten day visit with her sister and brother at the 4 U Ranch in southern Colorado. It is located about 200 miles south of Denver. She got in plenty of fishing and found it quiet a battle compared to fishing the AuSable, but well worth the experience.

On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kozicki left for Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Ill., where their son, Steven, graduates from boot camp on August 14.

Verne Hartman spent the weekend in Saginaw with his brother, Mark of Jackson, from Wednesday until Saturday. Her husband, James Howse, and niece and nephew, Clarence and Julie Myers, were enroute to Wolverine to do some fishing and picked her up enroute home.

The Jolly Ten club met at the home

The AuSable River is one of three rivers receiving special attention this summer. The other two rivers are the Jordan and the Red Cedar. The purpose of the study is to examine three rivers with differing degrees of deterioration in an attempt to find perimeters that will help locate trouble before it becomes too late to do something about it.

BITS OF TALK

Sunday, August 1, was the date for the 37th annual Millikin reunion. Mother nature cast a shadow over Hartwick Pines, but the day ended up being wonderful.

Descendants of William and Helen Millikin, 79 in all, with five guests, gathered for a potluck luncheon. Photographs of past reunions were on display, bringing back many memories, thanks to Keith Warner. Leisurely walks were taken to the famous monarch pine and logging cabins. Softball was played by the younger at heart. Everyone had a great time meeting new relatives and reminiscing.

Family members traveled from Alva, Florida, Minnesota, Ovid, Lake Odessa, Mio, Gaylord, Roscommon, Prudenville, St. Louis, Novi and, of course, Grayling.

A collection was taken for the rental of the new Beaver Creek Township Hall and recreation complex for next year's reunion. The 1994 Millikin reunion will be held Sunday, August 7.

Mt. Hope to offer Bible school

Come with the Mt. Hope Lutheran Church on a treasure hunt to discover God's promise for all of us on August 16-20.

"The Greatest Treasure Hunt," the church's vacation Bible school will start at 9 a.m. on Monday and end each day at 11:30, except for Friday, when the group will have a short program for friends and relatives.

TOPS meets

On July 1, LouAnn Crosby was the top loser at the Take Off Pounds Sensibly meeting, and received the lucky envelope. Bonnie Poll got the fruit basket.

On July 8, Shirley Bordeaux was top loser. Linda Weaver was the one who took home the fruit basket.

On July 22, Juanita Beck was top loser, getting the lucky envelope. She made a double win that week as she got the fruit basket also.

On July 28, Crosby was top loser again that week and Jennie Feldhauer won the good fruit basket.

TOPS had a contest for five weeks, called Paddle to a Slimmer You. Weaver made it across the finish line first. Beck came in second.

Cards of thanks

I would like to thank the ambulance attendants, doctors and nurses at Mercy Hospital who took such good care of me during my recent illness. I would also like to thank Sister Rosemary, Rev. Patterson for his hospital calls, and all the other people who have sent cards and flowers and who prayed for me. Most of all, my wonderful family for their love and encouragement, and who were forever at my side.

Thank you all so much.
Genevieve Fraser
